STEIFF ORNAMENTS

These wonderful ornaments are sure to liven up any tree. Each is handmade with the same quality materials and craftsmanship as all traditional Steiff editions. You are sure to treasure these ornaments for many holidays to come.

For over thirty years, Lynne and Michael have created their classic dolls by hand at their home studio in England. The dolls are well-known for their porcelain head and hands (finely sculpted and delicately painted by Lynne) as well as their fully articulated lime-wood bodies (handcrafted by Michael). Their classic style draws inspiration from master doll makers of bygone eras, like Bru, and yet they bring their own artistic flair to each edition. Lynne combines fine natural fabrics with a rich and subtle palette of colors to create charming outfits for her dolls. These masterpieces are sure to be tomorrow's precious heirloom dolls. The all-bisque Little Friends Collection are also handmade and make wonderful companions for the larger Roche dolls.

LITTLE BONZO OVER 90 YEARS OF HISTORY & FUN!

Artist George Studdy introduced the first of his illustrated dogs in the early 1900s. These initial dogs, published in The Sketch, had fairly traditional personalities. Eventually he created one that was special. This dog had a mischievous personality that every man could identify with: he liked gambling, drinking and even pretty women. In fact, he was so special that readers demanded to know his name (something George hadn't yet considered). And so on November 8, 1922 – almost a year after his debut – George named the little pup Bonzo! Steiff has captured his trademark mischievousness in their 2011 rendition. Created exclusively for the European market, The Toy Shoppe is excited to bring Little Bonzo to our collectors in the USA.

Readers flooded The Sketch with inquiries about this delightful dog's name. With this illustration from November 8, 1922, he was christened Bonzo.

Toy Bonzos were such a success that Studdy himself made a parody cartoon of some real Bonzos being pursued by the soft toys – thus promoting the toys even more!

A Part Of Steiff History
Sometime during the mid-1920s, Steiff made approximately 120 fully jointed, velvet prototype Bonzos. Unfortunately, none ever made it to production. At the 2002 Steiff Festival auction, one of these prototypes achieved the highest bid ever placed for a "Non-Teddy" by Steiff. The hammer price was €55,000, almost $80,000!

Little Bonzo is your chance to own a piece of Steiff history.

Our flexible AMC payment plans are interest free and make every collector's dream affordable.

The popularity of Bonzo continues proving the lasting celebrity power of the amazing pup.

Special thanks to Julie Blewis, Doll News and Richard Fitzpatrick for their help, information and images.
